"Goldie Locks" is worth $500 to Bob and Ruth Antraccoli.

$500 reward offered

Their costly parrot leaves home

PLEASANTON — Goldie Locks flew the coop from Chicken Alley.

And you can line your cage with 500 long, green ones if you find him.

"Goldie Locks," one hastens to explain, is a Yellow-naped-Amazon. That's a parrot.

He left his roost 10 days ago while Bob and Ruth Antraccoli were remodeling their home. He's lived with them for nearly all his seven years.

The Antraccolis are offering $500 for his return.

That's a lot of parrot.

"He's a very tame bird," Ruth said, "and we love him."

He was first sighted "hitchhiking" down Chicken Alley, the southern stretch of Pleasanton so named because its residents were once mainly chickens, near the Antraccolis' 6249 Alisal St. home.

But he was spotted late last week and over the weekend flying in Livermore.

"He never learned to fly," Ruth said, "so we think he was startled by something into flying. He has full flight wings, but he used to fall out of trees."

He's "basically green" with 2½ inches of yellow at the base of his neck. Hence "Goldie Locks." His gender came as a belated surprise to Ruth and Bob.

"But when he spreads his wings, he's multi-colored with blues, greens, yellows and reds," said Ruth.

"Oh, he's very friendly. He likes people. He'll come to you and eat ice out of your hand." He also likes fresh fruits, celery, "and typical parrot food."

He won't climb down from a tree, or at least wouldn't before he learned to fly, and has to be coaxed onto a stick, Ruth said.

"He says 'Hello,' and 'Goldie Locks' and jabbers. He's very vocal. The people said the bird flying in Livermore was very vocal. But he's a clean-mouthed parrot. He wouldn't offend a Little Old Lady."

But is he worth $500?

"He's worth about $350," Ruth explained. "But I thought if I offered enough, nobody would be tempted to steal or sell him."

The Antraccolis can be reached at 846-3369.

VOL. 92, NO. 172 $2 A MONTH TUESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1977 PLEASANTON, CALIFORNIA

A comprehensive survey of 13 California fairs, including the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton, reviewed Saturday by the local fair's finance and budget committee reveals the Valley association to be sounder financially than any of the others.

The detailed comparison by Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the Alameda County Fair Association, lists revenue and expenditure data for the Alameda County Fair the past three years along with those of fairs at Vallejo (Solano), Santa Rosa (Sonoma), San Mateo, Stockton (San Joaquin), Fresno, Ferndale (Humboldt), Del Mar (San Diego), Costa Mesa (Orange), Bakersfield (Kern), Yentura, Imperial, and Santa Clara.

The figures for '77, in particular, make it apparent that the Alameda County Fair made a miraculous recovery from a disastrous bicentennial year fair hamstrung by picketing and a total lack of horse racing.

Hall's figures were presented to the committee chaired by George Jacopetti as thorough substantiation to heretofore contentions that the Pleasanton fair was prospering, though allegedly receiving less than full financial support and backing from state sources.

For 1977, the Alameda County Fair lists a net operating total of $53,420. All other fairs list lesser amounts and, in actuality, nine show deficit figures. Biggest deficit is that of Santa Clara, $437,366.

Yet Santa Clara appears to have received the largest stipend through its county board of any of the 13 fairs — $366,018.

Of the 13, four receive monies from local tax sources. They include Santa Clara, Fresno, San Mateo, and Ferndale.

Revenues from race meets in 1977 show that Alameda topped all those listed with $1.5 million, surpassing Santa Rosa, Vallejo, Fresno, Stockton, Ferndale and San Mateo.

The local fair was topped by only Fresno in '77 revenues from grounds admissions.

Feeder bus service to the Valley will grind to a halt if AC Transit drivers strike.

Strike means shutdown of transit here

An AC Transit strike coupled with the week-old Bay Area Rapid Transit District walkoff would shut down mass transit in the Valley and throw Bay Area commuters into chaos.

AC Transit runs about 65 buses a day from the Valley to the Hayward, Bay Fair and Walnut Creek BART stations. The buses get limited use serving the Valley's three communities.

If AC Transit drivers strike, the only way out of the Valley will be by car or limited runs by bus service.

While BART management and police union officials were meeting again last night, AC Transit and its operators' union had scheduled no negotiation sessions.

About one-fourth of the Amalgamated Transit Union's 2,100 members voted 578 to 20 Sunday night to authorize a strike. Membership turned down a 3.4 per cent pay and benefits hike offered by AC management, a union spokesman said.

The union, representing drivers, mechanics and clerks, is asking for "something in the neighborhood of 6.6 per cent," the spokesman said.

The union, ATU local 192, has been operating without a contract since July 1.

"We're not advocating a strike," an official said. "We don't want to go on strike. We're hopeful we can get back to the table within the next two days."

Bus drivers currently earn $8.03 per hour. The union said it wants the increase to put members' pension and retirement benefits on par with other transit districts in the state.

It would cost $750,000 to $1.1 million to bring AC's plan up to those of the Golden Gate Transit District and others in Sacramento, Stockton and Los Angeles, according to the union attorney.

AC officials said talks were "anticipated" this afternoon, although none had been set formally.

"We have an informal agreement to work while we iron out this new contract," an AC spokesman said. "Remember, they've been working since the contract expired at the end of June."

Meanwhile, the BART strike, which has dumped hundreds of cars on the freeways, seemed to be waning.

Weather

High today, 90's, up to 104 in Livermore and San Ramon Valleys, says the National Weather Service. Low tonight, mid - 50's and low 60's and northwest winds 10 to 25 mph are predicted during the day. A little cooler tomorrow with highs in 90's.

Homeowners sue to block construction

PLEASANTON — Del Valle Parkway homeowners have sued the city in an attempt to block the parkway's extension and construction of Morrison Homes' 65-unit "Creeks Bend" project.

The suit claims the city's Environmental Impact Report is insufficient in failing to consider the noise impact of widening the parkway into a four-lane thoroughfare.

The neighborhood group, organized as the Pleasanton Safe Streets Association, wants the parkway to follow the contour of the Arroyo Del Valle.

The city's planning department rejected the idea, and city council approved the project on a close 3-2 vote.

The parkway will link Hopyard Road with Main Street and Stanley Boulevard.

Safe Streets Association attorney Joseph Brecher could not be reached for comment.

City attorney Ken Scheidig said he'll appear Sept. 13 before Alameda County Superior Court Judge M. O. Sabraw in Hayward.

Housing board meets

The first joint meeting between the Livermore Housing Authority Board and the Leahy Square Tenants Association will center on discussion of the LHA budget tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Campsites dwindling

Only five state park units have campsites still available for the Labor Day weekend and those reservations are going fast according to state parks and recreation director Herbert Rhodes.

The remaining campsite openings are reported to be Lake Perris State Recreation Area southesast of Riverside, Folsom Lake State Recreation Area east of Sacramento, Bliss State Park at Lake Tahoe and Del Norte Redwoods Park and Jedediah Smith Redwoods Park near Crescent City.

Food stamp switch

Valley buyers of federal food stamps will have uninterrupted service this week, thanks to cooperation between Alameda County and the federal government.

Valley Bank, which has handled the food stamps for many years locally, will terminate its contract for the stamps on Aug. 31. Alameda Supervisors are expected to approve termination of the Valley Bank contract today, a mere formality, and the post offices in Livermore and Pleasanton will begin selling food stamps Thursday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

School talks in two districts

Representatives of Pleasanton Joint School District teachers and administration, who have yet to agree on a contract since the advent of collective bargaining 20 months ago, will resume negotiations Thursday afternoon.

The Pleasanton district was the only one in the Valley to close the 1976-77 school year without agreeing to salary and benefits terms.

Negotiators for Amador district teachers and administration are also scheduled to huddle Thursday, prior to the elementary district session in the afternoon.

The Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (AVSEA) negotiating team, chaired by Rita Rowland, will be meeting with the Amador board counsel for the first time.

While a contract settlement was effected in the district, AVSEA was within two days of walking out after voting down a contract proposal earlier in the year.

Negotiations in the high school district were marked by bitter charges against the administration, court suits, a curtailed day of classes, and protest lines.

AVSEA officers this year are all new to the bargaining wars with the majority slated to teach at Amador Valley High. Last year's leadership was predominantly Dublin High.

Elementary teacher leadership, headed by president Tom Zach and Andy Jorgensen, met with board counsel two weeks ago to review finance legislation presently in the state legislative hopper.

In addition to the Thursday afternoon session, teachers and administration counsel are tentatively scheduled to meet Friday morning.

The San Francisco-based law firm of Breon, Galgani and Godino will again advise both districts on matters related to contract. Breon, however, has nominated another member of the firm to actually sit in on negotiations.

DMV

Office seen in two years

LIVERMORE —The Valley is scheduled to receive a new Department of Motor Vehicles office in Pleasanton but it is at least two years away according to the DMV's deputy director and the head of the local office.

Deputy Director Charles Ericksen visited the Livermore DMV office yesterday as part of his current tour of the agency's field offices, with DMV director Herman Sillas and his other deputy Doris Alexis. With local office manager Elizabeth Thayer he saw the cramped Livermore office which Thayer said would be moved to a new site on Las Positas Boulevard and Hopyard Road in about October of 1979.

Thayer said the site was purchased earlier this year but little more had been done because of pressing needs in other department offices. The current Livermore office on N Street has been open for over 20 years and recently was expanded to a trailer for more working space. "We trip over things here and the fire marshal gets a little uptight occasionally," said Thayer, speaking in a small combined storage and employe lunch room.

Thayer and Ericksen had also discussed the DMV's increasing flexibility in scheduling office hours and processing applications. Recent legislation in the state assembly gave the local department offices authority to shift their office hours as Livermore has in extending its Thursday hours to 6:30 p.m. which has become one of the office's busiest days Thayer said.

No taxes, races, but fair thrives

Figures under the heading of resources estimated available Dec. 31, 1977, also show the Pleasanton fair to be soundest of all compared.

Alameda estimates $710,322 will be available. This is some $190,000 more than estimated for the Fresno District Fair and well above the amount listed for the major south coast fair at Del Mar.

The Valley-based fair had a deficit operating total of just over half-a-million dollars after last year's fiasco, caused primarily by the shutdown of racing. Six other fairs also showed deficit amounts, topped by a $531,860 figure for Santa Clara.

Despite the adverse circumstances, Alameda wound up '76 with more monies available than 10 of the fairs.

Six of the 13 are shown to have received monies from local tax sources in 1976. Santa Rosa is listed as having received a high of $600,000. Alameda is shown as not receiving any local tax monies in any of the three years for which Hall compiled data.

The Alameda County fair also shows $1.98 million as balance on hand operating revenues from 1976, third highest of the 13 despite the fact no racing was held.

Santa Clara showed the largest net operating deficits each of the three years, though the San Jose-based fair does not have horse racing.

All of the fairs compared, save Del Mar, are eligible for state funding of up to $65,000 yearly. The monies are to be applied to operating expenses.

The Pleasanton fair is presently engaged in discussions with the county board of supervisors towards renewal of a contract. The present pact expires in a month.

Talks on county center due

OAKLAND — With Valley supervisor Valerie Raymond back from vacation, county supervisors are expected to have a full complement today to discuss where the future East County Government Center will be located.

The public hearing will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the supervisors chambers, fifth floor, county building, 1221 Oak St.

The Livermore City Council favors locating the complex on the sprawling lands the county owns adjacent to the Santa Rita Jail, as recommended by County Administrator Loren Enoch.

However, the Pleasanton City Council would like to see the complex on Hopyard Road, for example, on the commercially zoned property owned by Willow West. At one time the Willow West site was in contention for the regional shopping center location.

The Pleasanton council feels that the Hopyard Road has good access from the rest of the Valley and suitable commercial zoning. The council realizes the county already owns the Santa Rita land, but does not want to see commercial development on the county land when other areas of the Valley already have it or are planned for it.

Mori's bill for disabled

A measure authored by Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) which exempts disabled persons from paying extra auto license fees for special modifications of their cars has been signed into law.

Previous law stated that license fees are computed on a percentage of the base price of vehicles, including modifications exceeding $200 in value. The new law will exempt those modifications necessary to the mobility of disabled persons.

The bill passed both houses without a dissenting vote and was signed into law last week.

"It was brought to my attention that the cost of modifying a vehicle for use by the physically handicapppd frequently costs as much as the vehicle itself," Mori said. "In essence, we have been asking that these individuals pay double the license fee of the general population.

"We must facilitate the process whereby individuals are encouraged to become active, self-sufficient participants in the community. It is enough of an obstacle that costly modifications must be made in order to make a vehicle operable without imposing the burden of increased license fees," Mori said.

The bill, which takes effect immediately, will enable people whose license fees now reflect handicap-related modifications to request a fee reevaluation by the Departmpnt of Motor Vehicles. Any subsequent reduction in assessed value and fees will take effect when the license is renewed.

Schools seek new director

Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel in the Amador and Pleasanton school districts, announced Monday that interviews will commence Wednesday for the position of Director of Pupil Personnel Services. Some 60 applications from throughout the state and nation have been received. The successful applicant will succeed Gloria Jones, who is now assistant principal for adult education.

Applications close today for the principalship at Walnut Grove School. The vacancy was created by Tony Huff's resignation to accept a similar position with the Turlock School District.

Tom Ingham will serve as interim principal at Walnut Grove until a new person is selected on or about Oct. 1.

Krause also said the annual new teachers luncheon will be held Friday at 12 noon at the Dublin High School cafeteria. There are 16 new teachers in both the Amador and Pleasanton districts.

BART police strike fades

The district was operating at two-thirds normal service yesterday morning after seven train operators reported for work. Only four showed up Friday.

BART put 22 trains on the line yesterday. In contrast, only half that many were in service Friday.

Twenty-eight members of BART's police force are striking, according to a BART spokeswoman, and another 22 crossed their own union's picket lines yesterday to report for work.

Trains were running at 15-minute intervals during yesterday's commute hours, and at half-hour headways at mid-day.

The number of riders was up significantly yesterday, with 26,014 riding to work compared to 19,400 Friday morning, according to BART.

But freeway and bridge traffic was still heavy.

An added AC Transit would end all major mass transit in the East Bay.

Humphrey is optimistic

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey says he's feeling stronger every day after surgery that showed he has terminal cancer of the pelvis, adding, "I'm sure this week I'll be out and back home.

Humphrey's optimistic forecast came in an early morning telephone call Monday to radio station WCCO.

A spokesman at the University of Minnesota Hospitals said Sunday Humphrey was getting "anxious" to leave. He underwent surgery Aug. 18 for a bowel obstruction.

Doctors said the tumor they found was a recurrence of cancer that several months ago forced the removal of Humphrey's bladder. They said the new cancer is inoperable but will be treated by chemotherapy.

East Bay park tax rate holds the line

OAKLAND — East Bay Regional Park District directors set a property tax rate of 20.4-cents per $100 of assessed value at last Friday's meeting to underwrite the district's record $26.3 million budget.

The rate has not changed in the past two years.

The $26,328,947 budget is the largest in the district's 43 years of operation. It was adopted in June "with the blessing of grand juries, taxpayers' associations and other informed community action groups throughout" Alameda and Contra Costa counties, according to the district.

Director Mary Lee Jefferds of Berkeley cast the lone dissenting vote.

Speakers from the two counties' taxpayers associations asked the board to lower the rate to 19.2-cents per $100.

The record budget contains a $395,582 deficit that will be wiped out by higher property assessments and the same tax rate, said EBRPD finance chairman William F. Jardin of San Leandro. It will also will give the district about $360,000 "that can be applied to items we cut out of the budget or 'possibles' that have since become realities," he added.

The windfall funds could go to improved access into Garin Regional Park in Hayward, and San Leandro Bay and Martinez Regional Shorelines, Jardin said.

Board president John J. Leavitt of Alameda polled 19 "major" local agencies last week on their rate anticipations, finding some coming down, others going up, and a few staying the same.

"Throwing the ups and the downs together," he said, "we found that the average was a reduction of two cents. If the park district reduced its tax rate at this same level — one-fourth of a cent — the annual homeowner saving would amount to 25 cents on a $40,000 home." Leavitt also lists a menu of possible projects that could be funded from the tax windfall, including additional fire fighting equipment; reseeding lawns and replanting vegetation lost in the drought; retirement of the debt on EBRPD's pension program; a fund to cover an Unemployment Insurance Program; improvement and expansion of EBRPD's Skyline Boulevard headquarters in Oakland; a reserve for uninsured losses; and capital equipment that was cut from the current budget.

Leavitt pointed to Livermore and Hayward park and recreation districts and their 65.6 and 60.9-cent tax rates and noted they, too, are "holding to the same levels as last year."

500 more SRV homes?

Developers seek approval from the San Ramon Homeowners Association to build more than 500 homes in the San Ramon Valley.

The SRHA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the faculty lounge of Walt Disney School to consider the proposals.

Largest of the developments, according to SRHA, is a Shappell Industry plan to construct 305 homes north of Athan Downs Park in San Ramon. The tract spans 110 acres from I-680 east to Southern Pacific railroad tracks.

Shappell has not forwarded its latest plans for the development to the homeowners, a spokesman said yesterday, and may not be allowed to make a presentation Thursday.

Willis and Associates will appear with a plan to build 164 homes in the foothills east of Alcosta Boulevard, opposite the end of Montevideo Road in San Ramon.

The Planned Unit Development would go on 192 acres of hillside land.

Pacific Scene developers wants homeowner approval for 50 homes on the north side of Montevideo Road between Broadmoor Drive and the SP rail tracks. The developers want the okay for architectural changes in the original plans.

One other firm, Pacific Concepts, will present plans for a Racquetball Club on Old Crow Canyon Road, also in San Ramon.

City growth plan faces second public hearing

PLEASANTON — The public will get another shot at affecting the city's proposed Growth Management Plan when planning commissioners hold their second public hearing next week.

The GMP, promised to be controversial because it details development in the city for the next 20 years, will spell out who builds what, where, when, and how.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 7, in city council chambers at 30 W. Angela St.

Essentially, the proposed plan would lay out "mandatory" requirements for future home development and a set of "incentives" which would earn points for developers.

City council would allocate a given number of building permits each year. They would go to the developers who meet the mandates and have the most points.

Mandatory requirements entail "environmental" and "housing" concerns.

Incentive points would be awarded for energy and water conservation, noise standards, traffic circulation, design, air quality, and other environmental, fiscal and housing considerations.

A "Residential Allocation Board" would review builders' applications and, totaling incentive points, put them on a priority list.

For example, a project would gain incentive points for environmental conderations if it were within a half-mile of an existing shopping center and a BART bus route. Bicycle paths would earn bonus points, as would conformance with Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s energy saving standards.

Incentive points could also be bought, under the proposal, by contributions to the city's capital improvements or housing funds.

Commercial and industrial development falls outside the scope of the massive, two-inch thick plan.

Most developers have objected strongly to the proposed plan.

It is expected to undergo heavy modification before final approval by city council.

Chiropractic Health Hints

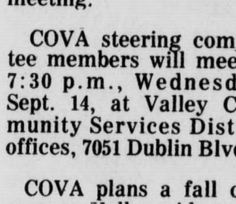
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH



CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

HOW TO GET RID OF "THAT TIRED FEELING"

A tired feeling is not pleasant. It interferes with one's daily work and happiness. You may attribute your fatigue to overwork, but often this is not the answer. Look about you and you will see many who work just as hard as you do, yet do not suffer from chronic fatigue.

The answer most often lies within your body. Your body machine is not producing enough useful energy for your daily activities. You should check on your body machine in a number of different ways. First check on your food. Eat a well-balanced diet of fruits, vegetables, eggs, cheese, milk, meat, and whole wheat products.

Secondly, the restorative power of sleep is most important to your body health. The normal period of sleep ranges from six to eight hours depending upon the individual.

Third relax your nerves! Nervous strain affects the brain and nerves, interfering with their normal rhythm.

The most important part of the nervous system is found in the skull and spinal column. Its intimate relationship to body structures and muscles renders it most susceptible to irritation.

Normal nerve function can be assured by correction of any postural distortions and restoring the mechanical integrity of the body.

When the nerve system is working smoothly, unhampered either by mental or physical hazards, the answer is buoyant health.

The chiropractor corrects minor displacements of bones of the spinal column. This removes irritation and interference with the spinal cord through openings between the vertebrae. Chiropractic adjustments, by removing irritation from the nerves, reduce over-sensitiveness of the nerve system. With the return of relaxation, a healthy night's sleep is restored and a keen appetite is developed.

With the improvement of the physical condition, the patient regains self-confidence and finds that periods of anxiety gradually disappear. The results supply the final evidence that chiropractic is definitely indicated in these disorders.

2nd name in SRV campaign

A leader in two abortive attempts to incorporate San Ramon has filed for the San Ramon Valley Unified School District board race while a former board president, Harold Zuckerman, has taken out papers.

With three days remaining to file for the Nov. 8 election, just two persons have indicated interest in the position vacated last month by Ronald Harris. Necessary papers may be picked up and filed with the Contra Costa County Schools office in Martinez through Thursday.

Michael Wahlig, a member of the San Ramon Homeowners Association board the past four years, filed last Thursday. A two-term president of the association, Wahlig was in the forefront of two attempts to incorporate San Ramon and Danville.

Wahlig resides at 59 Nead Place in San Ramon. He and his wife are the parents of two children who will attend California High School this fall and one who will be entering Pine Valley Intermediate. An older daughter graduated from Cal High in June.

Wahlig is a physicist and presently working on a solar energy project at Lawrence Laboratory in Berkeley.

The Wahligs have been San Ramon residents for 10½ years.

Karen Stepper, a Danville resident and member of the Citizens Committee for Year Round Schools, filed in mid-August.

Zuckerman lost out in a bid for reelection last March. A veteran member of the San Ramon school board, he had served as board president.

Zuckerman is a high school principal in Oakland.

As of late Monday he had taken out but not returned election papers.

The San Ramon board called for the special election rather than appoint a new member to complete the unexpired term of Harris. The latter had served less than four months when he resigned to accept a new job with a Dallas, Texas, firm.

Claudia Edwards, first runnerup in the election last March, has stated she may file. Mrs. Edwards had sought to be appointed to the vacant position.

Pre school applications in mail

LIVERMORE — Applications for the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District's fall preschool classes; Tiny Tots, Mommy and Me, One and Two and Kindermovement will be mailed to Livermore homes Sept. 8.

The LARPD has announced the applications will be processed at random after Sept. 12 to negate the advantages of early delivery or by residents' vacations.

According to LARPD superintendent Dee Manning, "We really want to accomodate everyone. The registration forms will have spaces to indicate a first choice of class and an alternate. If, because of size limits, your choices are not available when your application is handled, you will also have indicated whether you want another class assigned." Classes begin Monday, Sept. 26 and times and location will sent in the application brochure. Mail-in forms must be sent with a self-adressed, stamped envelope to 71 Trevarno Rd.

Valley Campus offers specials

Chabot College Valley Campus has announced a host of specialty courses scheduled for the autumn quarter.

Special training for security guards will be provided by two short courses starting Sept. 7 and 13.

One course, Powers to Arrest, is scheduled from 8 a.m. until 12:20 p.m. Sept. 13 and 14 in Room 202 at the Valley Campus. The other, a firearms qualifications course, will be held Sept. 7 and 10.

Powers to Arrest is designed so security guards may meet California law requirements. It enumerates the powers to arrest for civilians as well as officers, acquaints the student with Penal Code Section 837, points out the difference between detention and arrest and the legal authority involved, and what powers to arrest involve.

Registration will be taken at the first class meeting Sept. 13. There are no academic prerequisites.

The classroom portion of the firearms qualification course is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. until 2:50 p.m. Sept. 7 in Room 202, with the weapons qualification following on Sept. 10 at a local firing range.

Various statutes governing the carrying of weapons by security personnel will be covered along with the nomenclature, including description and function of weapons. Safety practices will also be emphasized. Students passing the class will receive a card from the Department of Consumer Affairs, Bureau of Collections and Investigating Services.

Students may register at the first class meeting Sept. 7.

A day time class in real estate principles will also be offered in the autumn quarter at Chabot Valley Campus.

The class, taught by Henry Thornton, will meet from 1:30 to 3:45 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in Room 505.

Instruction covers real and property acquisition, ownerships, estates in real property, joint tenancies, partnerships, sales contracts, homesteads, deeds and taxes as well as financing, real estate practices, and regulation of the real estate business. The class provides five units of college credit.

***

Two new series of four courses for individuals interested in Human services occupations will be offered at Chabot College in Hayward.

One is designed to prepare students for the position of eligibility technician, a county level Civil Service position. The other is for individuals interested in learning more about the problem of alcoholism and how to prepare for a job as an alcohol abuse counselor.

Eligibility technicians work in the Welfare Department and are responsible for interviewing persons desiring public assistance and determining the degree of eligibility each person has. This series, which can be completed in one year, includes two quarters of on-the-job training. It is being offered cooperatively by Chabot College, the Alameda County Social Services Agency, and Merritt College.

The Alcohol Abuse program is designed to provide students with basic information and skills needed for entry level positions in public and private alcohol treatment and rehabilitation programs.

Members of the community not interested in the vocational aspects of alcohol abuse counseling can also benefit from the series in terms of increased understanding of the alcoholism problem.

Brochures describing these new programs are available by writing Chabot College, 25555 Hesperian Blvd., Hayward 94545, or telephoning 782-3000, ext. 450.

Elizabeth Taylor released

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor, who spent two weeks in Washington's Georgetown Hospital for back injuries, was released Monday in "greatly improved condition," a spokesman for the actress said here.

Miss Taylor, 43, had been treated for a flareup of an old back injury complicated by bursitis.

The actress's doctors said she was to continue complete bed rest at her Georgetown home for the next several weeks. Her convalescence caused her to cancel an appearance next week at the Deauville film festival in France, where she was to be guest of honor at the premier of "A Little Night Music."

China talk scheduled

WALNUT CREEK — China today, its economy, government and people will be Contra Costa Times Publisher Dean Lesher's topic at a Sept. 8 luncheon of the Walnut Creek Area Chamber of Commerce.

Reservations must be made in advance for the $6.50 meal at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo. For details, call 934-2000, or send money for reservations to the chamber, 1359 Locust St.

FUN AND GAMES ON EAST STANLEY

Tooling along East Stanley Boulevard between Livermore and Pleasanton these days is like using the tools of the stone age or at least some time before the wheel was invented. Fred Flintstone could probably get from Livermore to Pleasanton in his two wheel stone cart faster than I can make it in my sporty Hillman Minx, now that the road is all torn up.

That's progress for you. It holds you back. And a smiling man with a yellow flag that says "slow" is not telling us anything we didn't already know.

Did you ever see such an array of road equipment concentrated in one place? What excitement! The clouds of dust, the puffs of smoke. The teams of men laying track in their green hard hats. The men driving the bulldozers and the steamrollers and the graders. The flourescent orange "Men Working" signs. Trains moving on the right. Trucks moving dirt on the left. All traffic stopped in the middle.

The logical answer to the traffic congestion would be to have a ferry service across Shadow Cliffs lake, west to east, and a train piggy-back shuttle service for cars, east to west on the Western Pacific tracks.

Both cities should run their own car wash at their end of the dustbin that was a road. Also, a people bath. Free, of course. It will save them money that would otherwise be spent sweeping up after the dusties coming in to their respective towns.

One intriguing thing to do while waiting your turn at the flagman with the stop sign, is to guess what's in the bottom of that big pit that was revealed when they cleared away the bank at the corner of Isabel Avenue. I guess there is probably a subdivision of homes in the bottom of the pit, or a mountain retreat with log cabins and big fir trees. Another theory is that a lovely tropical garden full of orchids, and luscious fruit is down there. Could it be Shangri-la?

When you have tired of that guessing game while waiting for the flagman to turn his stop sign to slow, you might play a game of Monopoly to while away the hours.

Or you could count things, like how many different types of road equipment you can spot, how many kinds you can name, (There are some exotic types on this job, it seems) how many men are working on the tracks, how many with green hats, how many with white hats, how many with yellow, or count the cars on the trains that pass by.

At any given time, it is hard to say what is really happening in that cloud of dust. One day the dust cleared momentarily and a whole carnival was revealed going on inside the dust. There were concessions and games of chance. These were just the people waiting to pass down E. Stanley Boulevard.

It is possible to spend the whole day there, providing you wear a mask. New friendships are made, old ones evaporate from memory. Cars are bought and sold. Babies are born, old soldiers fade away.

And the men who build the roads have the right idea. You come to the place in the road where the ruts are not so deep, the dust not so thick, and you see the sign they put up themselves which says "End roadwork" and you have to agree.

But a new breed of person emerges from the East Stanley phenomena. You can't come through something like that without being changed. You look in the mirror, and you immediately see the change. You are really dirty.

Whirling, trilling, spinning and grinning, Jill Whelan and Kyle York are getting ready for their latest theatrical performance. The Livermore actor and actress will be playing members of a vaudville family in "Someone's Got to Play the Palace."

Bright lights attract these two

I wonder if Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers started out at the back end of a cow and a green bean. Kyle York and Jill Whelan did — at least that's how their theatrical careers sprouted.

The two Livermore actors have moved up in the world from their earthy starts and will be playing real live kids in an upcoming production of "Someone's Got to Play the Palace" by the Concord Community Arts.

Actually, Kyle, 11, and Jill, 10, have done quite a number of shows. Both are in the current production of "Gypsy" at Chabot College. You may have noticed Jill, she plays Baby June.

Kyle had a part in "Christmas Conspiracy" with the Walnut Creek Children's Theater, and Jill played one of the children in the local production of "The King and I."

Between rehearsals the two keep busy with dance and singing lessons. Kyle has spent his last three summers studying with the American Conservatory Theatre and its spin-off ATTIC in San Francisco.

What does theater study entail for an 11-year-old? "It gets you to bust out," says Kyle, who thinks twice about his reply and edits himself: "Open up, I mean. It really teaches you how to express yourself. And we practice how to be in shows."

Doesn't all the study and preformances take an awful lot of time? Jill rolls her eyes, sighs and responds succinctly, "We're really filled up."

The two are performing "Gypsy" through Sept. 3 at Chabot College, and are rehearsing their new show on weekends in San Francisco. Doesn't that get confusing? "In the Palace show we haven't started the lines yet," explains Jill. She ponders the question a moment more and adds, "I've never carried two shows at the same time, though."

In "Someone's Got to Play the Palace," an original musical by Gregory Brooks and Robert Bendorff, Jill and Kyle will play brother and sister in a successful vaudeville family who's trying to keep vaudeville alive just a little longer.

Jill, who will be Betty Waters, finds herself the center of attention in the play as the theater owner puts Betty on center stage and surrounds her with feathers and balloons in a gimmick to keep patrons interested.

The two Waters kids will be singing and dancing most of the show, a Busby Berkeley - type extravaganza. "I'm going to be dancing in a waterfall," says Kyle with a grin. Jill adds that the two will do "a ballroom box waltz on a revolving stage."

What's most important in being effective on stage, revolving or not? "You have to express yourself and try to learn your lines, and keep smiling," instructs Kyle. Jill says it's most important to "always be on — performing. You must know your character."

It isn't a snap to get yourself on the stage either. Kyle choreographed his own "razzle dazzle" dance for the "Palace" tryouts. If you make it past the tryouts, he explains, you have to be "up" for the callbacks.

It may come as no surprise that the two have thoughts of theater work in their futures, but they've got alternative plans too. "I want to be a dance teacher or an architect," says Kyle. "I want to be an actress, or if I can't do that, I want to work at Marine World," replies Jill.

Neither wanted to be the front end of the cow, though.

This fireman carries a heavy load — working and playing

Bob Rodriquez, far left, Ron Pinto and Jim Linhart demonstrate how weight lifting and physical training go hand in hand with firefighting duties.

Bob Rodriquez spends a good part of his day lifting things. At work, Fireman Rodriquez, totes around hose and stretchers. At home in Livermore, Bob lifts weights six hours every other day.

He put his two vocations together recently and won a silver medal at the California Firefighters Association Olympics in Newport Beach.

Rodriquez lifted a total 1060 pounds in a combination of bench, squat and dead lift moves to place second in the 148 pound class.

All firefighters at the Lawrence Livermore lab's firehouse keep in good shape, whether they like it or not.

The lab's fire chief, Robert Purington said that because heart attacks are considered occupational hazards for firefighters, lots of research has been done to see what can lessen the risk.

The problem, he explained, stems from the constant stress of waking from a sound sleep and being put under immediate pressure to perform heavy physical tasks.

Typical of the firefighter's duties, and an often practiced drill, is to carry a hose line up five stories, said Purington. He explained that that represents over 50 pounds of hose and 40 pounds of clothing plus a breathing apparatus per man.

"For a guy to do that, he's really got to be in good shape," said the Chief.

It was found that good conditioning could reduce a firefighter's susceptibility to heart attack, so the lab firehouse requires its staff to complete an hour of physical training each day on the job.

Rodriquez has no problem motivating himself. He said it's a matter of personal challange that began when he was stricken with polio as a young boy.

Doctors told him that it would be unlikely that he would be able to walk again. "Weight training brought me out of it," said the man who last year won a gold medal in skiing at the firefighters' Winter Olympics.

Some firefighters, said Purington, have to be sold on the advantage of training. He said most are more than willing to participate in team sports, but the injury rate is so high the management discourages it.

So, for the firefighters it means dull repetitive drills that help them save lives, including their own.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband is a traveling salesman. Though I don't consider myself promiscuous, when he's away I get very lonely and on occasion step out with another man. Now I find that I am pregnant and really have no idea who the father is. I'm afraid that when the child is born my husband will find out that possibly it isn't his. Right now he's walking on air at the thought of having a child, but if it doesn't look like him, I'm sure there's going to be trouble. I wish I hadn't been so irresponsible. — M.H.

DEAR M.H.: As the old saying goes, if wishes were fact, fishes could fly. You've obviously flown once too often.

The fact of the matter is that the odds very much favor that your husband is the father to the child. While it's true that a pregnancy can result from only one encounter, and you deny being "promiscuous," the possibilities are that the child is the offspring of your marriage.

Though you've been foolish in the past, don't compound it now by confessing to your husband. You'd only destroy him and any chance for future happiness you have. Unless the child's appearance is so radically different — if he is someone else's — your husband should be quite happy.

Your marriage and the happiness of your family - to - be hang on your discretion — which you obviously lacked in the past.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Despite what I might have thought, I guess I'm really a chauvinist. When, after 20 years of marriage, my wife decided she wanted to go back to work I didn't object. Our children were away at school, the house was lonely, and she was beginning menopause. I decided the change in scene and work would be beneficial — and so it has been. She's like a new person, loves her job, and has received promotions and commendations. Unfortunately, I have not been able to adjust. I feel her success is a reflection on my ability to head up my home and be its support. Similarly, I resent the interest she shows for things other than her home and family. Am I being old - fashioned? — J.O'D.

DEAR J.O'D.: Definitely. Your attitude smacks more of the 1870s than the 1970s. Today, when almost half the work force is made up of women, many of them rivalling men for top positions, your response to your wife's success sounds like the reaction of someone who feels threatened as far as your manhood and head of the house status are concerned.

You are really being quite illogical. On the one hand, you admit that her work has been a means of getting her over a difficult time, in both her sudden loneliness in an empty home and her physical response to a difficult period. Yet, by your negative thinking, you also take exception to that well - being.

You should be happy that after so many years she has been able to adapt so well to a new situation and surroundings. Obviously, she is better adjusted than you.

Times are changing drastically, and you should alter your thinking accordingly.

SIDE GLASSES by Gill Fox

"What I'm looking for is a car that runs as smoothly as you talk!"

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to do weightlifting and strength exercises to really build up my muscles over a year or two. I don't want to be a "Mr. Universe" but would like to have good muscles. If I stop the exercises later, and have an office job, will my muscles retain their shape or will they be prone to "fall" in a shorter-than-normal period of time compared to a person who developed muscles by normal hard-working labor? Or does the method of muscular development matter?

DEAR READER — It really doesn't matter how the muscles were developed — by an exercise program in the gym, at home, or exercise resulting from physical labor.

The point is that the more muscular development you have as a result of the work-exercise if you then stop and do very little it will look like the muscles disappear faster than in a person who has smaller muscles to start with. That is because the person with less developed muscles has less to lose to get to the same inactive level so the change is not as striking.

You could maintain your muscles, though, with a reasonable program of exercise one day a week. While we think endurance exercises such as walking and jogging should be maintained more often than once a week to maintain optimal fitness, muscle strength can be maintained with a once a week program.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me what the difference is, if any, in taking regular thyroid tablets and taking kelp tablets?

I've heard and read that both have iodine and help the thyroid gland to manufacture thyroxine which an underactive thyroid needs. I'm taking two grains of thyroid daily but would prefer to take kelp if it would do the job as well.

DEAR READER — Kelp is a seaweed and it contains iodine. If a person is deficient in iodine it is a useful source for it. However, it is not the same thing as thyroid tablets at all and cannot be substituted for them.

Thyroid tablets do not contain iodine. They are replacement hormone for the natural thyroid hormone, thyroxine, produced by the thyroid gland. The reason for giving thyroid tablets is because a person's own thyroid gland does not produce enough thyroid hormone. That condition is seldom related to iodine deficiency — although iodine deficiency can cause goiters of the thyroid gland.

Q. "HOW IS SOUND PRODUCED?"
A. ALL SOUNDS ARE PRODUCED BY VIBRATING OBJECTS. THE VIBRATIONS CREATE SOUND WAVES IN THE AIR THAT CARRY THE SOUND TO OUR EARS

Every sound you hear is caused by something vibrating (moving rapidly back and forth) in the air.

Pluck a guitar string and very lightly touch the string. You will feel the vibrations with your fingers.

When a dog barks, the vocal cords in the dog's throat are vibrating. When an object vibrates and produces sound, it makes the air around it vibrate, too.

The faster the object vibrates, the higher the sound it produces.

The vibrations travel as sound waves in all directions, much like the little waves made by a rock dropped in the water. When the vibrations reach your ears, you hear them as sound.

Whenever a sound is made, the sound travels through the air at a speed of about 750 miles an hour. No sound travels forever as a sound. The waves that carry the sound become weaker and weaker, and finally our human ears can hear them no longer.

More opportunities than you are generally capable of recognizing are likely to come your way this year. Screen carefully any unusual offerings that originate with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let your usual cautious, calm appraisal of things desert you today. Avoid being pressured into something where you wind up buying a pig in a poke.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a likeable person. People take to you readily, but don't let your popularity deceive you into thinking others will accept your analysis without proof.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Customarily you're not one who looks for a free ride. This isn't true today. You may expect a larger share than you're really entitled to.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lady Luck usually gets you out of tight squeezes. Today her attention could be elsewhere. You may have to bail yourself out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's possible your mate may not be as ambitious today as you'd like him or her to be. Prodding too pointedly may only aggravate things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Being boastful is not your usual way. Today, however, you may attempt to embellish your accomplishments and be very embarrassed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Repress any gambling urges that may beset you today. If you're involved in any speculative financial ventures, move very cautiously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Opportunity may come to you today but you could waste it through impulsive judgment. Try to see the long-run potential.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your heart could be bigger than your bank balance today. If someone needs your help, do what you can within the realm of possibility and prudence.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Financial surpluses should not be tapped frivolously today. If you've put something aside for a rainy day, wait for a cloudburst.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your luck and good looks get you into the starting gate today. The only thing that'll win the race, however, is sheer determination.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) In an important matter you may feel you have a trump card up your sleeve. Check before playing it. It may have been lost in the laundry.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We don't know if this hand shows experts at their best or worst. South was Claggett Bowie of Baltimore. Claggett knew that he had underbid his hand. He also noted that while the play for seven was poor indeed, six notrump was just as sure a contract as six spades. Since the game was match points, Claggett decided to find some way to make an extra trick at his six-spade contract.

When East discarded a heart at trick one it appeared that the normal play for seven — a heart finesse, followed by the play of the ace to drop the king — would not work.

What would? Maybe West would hold the singleton king or if he held a doubleton king, West could be persuaded to throw the king away. West was an expert and would not think Claggett held as strong a hand as he did.

So Claggett drew trumps, cashed the clubs and diamonds and then played his ace of hearts.

The ordinary West player would never throw the king of hearts, but this West was an expert. He finally decided that Claggett had started with ace-x-x in hearts and that it was up to him to chuck his king to avoid being end played. He did just that and Claggett had his overtrick.

Punchless 49ers lose to Oilers

HOUSTON — The Houston Astrodome turned out to be a chamber of horrors for the San Francisco 49ers Monday night as the host Oilers scored their first preseason win over the West Coast foes, 17-3.

Houston which had lost three previous games and could score only 17 points in that span.

Houston equaled its season total of 17 points in the three previous games with its victory against the Niners.

Former Santa Clara quarterback Dan Pastorini connected with 16 of 30 passes for 187 yards for the Oilers and one touchdown.

Pastorini fired a 57-yard touchdown to tight end Jim Giles with 1:11 left in the third period.

Other Oiler scoring saw backup QB Karl Douglas scoring on a one-yard run with 3:49 gone in the third stanza and Skip Butler connected with a 29-yard. field goal with 2:38 on the clock.

San Francisco's only three points of the evening came on a 38-yard field goal by Tom Wittum with 3:42 gone in the first period.

Coach Ken Meyer's Niners failed to convert on 10 third down situations — that's how bad things were for San Francisco Monday night.

Not only did the San Francisco team drop its preseason mark to 1-3 but they also lost the services of special teams player Bruce Rhodes who suffered a broken left leg and dislocated left elbow late in the first period.

Rhodes was hospitalized in Houston's Methodist Hospital.

The Oilers had three other TD's nullified by Houston as they were socked with a total of 96 yards in penalties.

Seven San Francisco fumbles, four of which were lost also dimmed the 49er hopes.

The Niners missed an excellent chance to move ahead by a bigger first half margin after quarterback Jim Plunkett had thrown a 53-yardcompletion to wide receiver Kenny Harrison with 10 seconds remaining before the intermission. —by Don Zupan

Livermore High football coach Ron Berg sends the defending EBAL champion Cowboys through pre-season drills.

Defending champ Cowboys counting on speed, quickness

Size alone seldom wins football games.

Livermore High football coach Ron Berg is hoping his 1977 Cowboy team will reinforce the validity of that statement. The 'Pokes do not have an abundance of giants on this year's team, but are blessed with a bevy of speedsters to compensate.

After winning a share of the East Bay Athletic League title in 1976, the Cowboys went up against a small-but-powerful Washington High School squad and were beaten by three touchdowns in the North Coast Section playoff.

"We're not going to be that big," said Berg, "though we've got more speed than last year. We'll have to rely on quickness."

Livermore has always come through with some fine defensive teams, and this year is no exception. Heading the list of returning starters from last year's championship squad are defensive backs Jeff Perry and Johnny Farfan.

"We've got a lot of experience in the defensive secondary," explained Berg. Rounding out the backs will be returning lettermen Steve Allen and Dean Lindsey. Bob Thompson and Don Cole are also fighting for starting sports.

Rounding out the defensive squad on the line will be returning star Ron Rodriguez and Dave Farfan, a pair of rangy, hard-hitting linemen. Brian Schweiger, who sprained his ankle in a summer basketball league remains a question mark for the Cowboys' EBAL opener but will most likely see a lot of action once he returns.

Linebackers include veterans Kevin Fitzpatrick and Darryl Hanson. Greg Tennyson and Rick Hallwell are fighting for spots on the line, while junior linebacker Pete Martinez has been impressive in practice.

Junior Bob Bolen, seniors George Farrell and Steve Hagemann, and sophomore John Hagemann are also vying for spots in the starting line-up.

"We've got a whole bunch of juniors battling it out for spots on the defensive line," Berg stated. "They're not real big kids but they're pretty quick. We'll have to rely onquickness."

On offense, senior quarterback Naish Piazza will lead the troops. Juniors Mike Brown and Mark McClaughlin will back up Piazza.

Piazza started at defensive back last year, but will not see much action there this year. "We'll only use him if we have to," said Berg. Berg also related the fact that "The other two (Brown and McClaughlin) will be ready to jump in at any moment."

Returning veterans Steve Culy and Les Jacobs head the running backs, while Alonzo Davis, John Howard, Dave Farfan, Frank Brown, Robert Turpin, and Martinez are all battling for spots in the starting backfield.

"We're really pleased with all of our backs," said Berg. "We've got a ways to go with our line, but we're progressing."

Tennyson is back as the only returning starter for the offensive line, and everything else is pretty much wide open. The candidates include Chris Rockstead, Rodriguez, Jim Sampson, Hanson, and Jeff Davidson, among others, for the tackles and guard positions. At center, four men are battling it out while a like number are pressing for the tight end spot.

Bolen, Palmer, Fitzpatrick, and Greg Berg all have eyes on the job, while Phil Vella, Rick Macedo, and Lee Peterson, a transfer from Texas, fight for the center spot.

Johnny Farfan returns as flanker, while Ron Nicolosi, Terry Jacobs, and Lindsey are in line for the split end position.

"We hope we can keep progressing and sharpen up our offense and defense a little," said Berg of his defending champs. "I think right now they're going to give us a heck of an effort. We sure would like the championship again. It was a great experience."

Brock tops Cobb's mark

SAN DIEGO — The St. Louis Cardinals Lou Brock, already the holder of most of the major league's base stealing records, stole his 893rd base of his career Monday night to shatter the mark that Ty Cobb set 49 years ago.

Brock's record - breaking theft came in the seventh inning against the San Diego Padres. He had tied the record of 892 career steals in the first inning.

The St. Louis left fielder then broke the record with his 28th stolen base of the season after he had bounced into a fielder's choice to wipe out a runner in front of him.

Brock went on the first pitch by San Diego's Dave Freisleben and catcher Dave Roberts' throw was wide, as it had been in the first inning, and Brock slid in as shortstop Bill Almon dropped the ball.

The contest was stopped for the second time as Brock was mobbed by his St. Louis teammates. He was presented second base for the second time the evening.

Brock had moved to within a single steal of the record last Thursday night by stealing two bases against the San Francisco Giants. However, he went hitless in three games in Los Angeles over the weekend, reaching base only once — and that on a walk with a man already on base in front of him.

Following the St. Louis half of the inning, Brock was taken out of the game. He went to his spot in left field where he was surrounded by members of the San Diego bullpen getting his autograph.

But Cardinal manager Vern Rapp decided to give his left fielder some rest now that the tension of chasing Cobb's record had ended and called Brock into the dugout, replacing him with Rick Bosetti.

The 38 - year - old St. Louis outfielder already held most of the major league base - stealing records, including 118 thefts in a season. He set that mark in 1974, breaking the mark of 104 established by Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962. Wills had broken Cobb's record of 96 steals in a season. Cobb's career steals record, one of baseball's most durable, came between 1905-1928. The baseball Hall of Famer played with Detroit through 1926 before finishing his career with the Philadelphia A's.

Brock, however, matched the record in just his 16th full season in the major leagues. He played is first four major league games for the Chicago Cubs at the end of the 1961 campaign, then put in two full seasons there before being traded to St. Louis during the 1964 season.

Times adds new features

Got a gripe with the Times sports coverage, or one of our columns? A suggestion on how to improve either our coverage or a local sports program ? Or , do you have an bnnouncement you'd like run more than once, the kind the sports desk has been saying they'll "try" to squeeze in for you?

If you fit any of the above categories, you'll like the two added features to begin shortly in the Times sports section.

The first is a letters column. Sound off about anything on the sporting scene; that lousy story you saw in the paper last week, the lack of local facilities for your favorite sport, where you'd like to send Charlie Finley, repeat, anything.

All we ask is that the letter be relatively short and to the point. Potentially libelous or vulgar material will be edited out.

The second feature will be a "What's Happenin'" column devoted to sign-ups, flea markets, whatever your group is planning in the near future.

All sports announcements will be run from submission until the day of the event — and they'll be arrayed under a soon-to-be familiar heading, so your audience will know where to look.

So, keep those cards and letters coming in.

Royals start four pitchers

NEW YORK — Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, miffed at losing what was to have been a day off in the midst of a hot pennant race, taunted the American League by putting four pitchers in his lineup for Monday's makeup game with the New York Yankees.

The Yankees won the game 5- 3 on an eighth inning three-run pinch-hit home run by Chris Chambliss.

Besides Paul Splittorff, the starting pitcher, Herzog's lineup card had Dennis Leonard as the designated hitter, batting second; Jim Colborn in right field, batting clean-up, and Andy Hassler as the first baseman, batting fifth. All are members of the Royals' starting rotation.

Although Leonard, Colborn and Hassler were in the lineup that Herzog presented to the umpires and were credited with having appeared in the game, the Royals' manager substituted his regulars —DH Hal McRae, right fielder Al Cowens and first baseman John Mayberry —as soon as the game began.

Herzog was asked if he made out the original lineup to protest the American League's having ordered the Royals back to New York to make up a July 25 postponement. The Royals played in Baltimore on Sunday and begin an important series against the Texas Rangers in Kansas City Tuesday night. "Yeah, that's why," he said angrily. "I like New York, but I don't like it today. The Texas Rangers are playing golf in Kansas City today."

Herzog said he held McRae, Cowens and Mayberry out of the original lineup because they —and the Royals— h ave played 19 consecutive days and the latest labor contract between the clubowners and the Major League Baseball Players Association prohibits scheduling a team to play more than 19 days in a row.

But that rule is waived for make-up games and at baseball's present summer meetings it was agreed that the decision whether to postpone a game will be in the hands of the league from now on when two teams are playing their final series of the year.

Herzog, whose oddball lineup was cleared by the Royals' management, was annoyed that the Yankees called off the July 25 game during the afternoon, although the rain stopped well before game time. The official explanation was that the forecast was bad.

"Gabe Paul (Yankee president) told me when you get jobbed you're supposed to smile and I've been smiling ever since," said Herzog, whose club has moved into first place in the AL West.

"The Yankees don't deserve to get five people in the park today," he continued. "They ought to let them play for free. If it had really rained on July 25 and we waited until 10 o'clock I'd be glad to come here and play today. But not with the jobbing we got.

"I didn't want to play this game today. I wanted to play it after the season, if needed. But the league ordered us to play today.

"They should call this the Lee MacPhail (AL president) Bowl. I hope I don't get fined if we win this game. We couldn't play here on June 15 because the Yankees had played 19 days in a row. This league has rules for certain teams and rules for the Yankees."

In other action, Granada Bowl scored four runs in the last stanza of a nine-inning marathon to defeat the Assassins, 7-5.

Two Page HRs in A's victory

BOSTON — Rookie Mitchell Page drilled a pair of home runs, the second breaking a tie with one out in the ninth inning as the Oakland A's edged Boston 8-7 despite three homers by Red Sox slugger Jim Rice.

Page belted his 15th homer of the season with two runners on base in the fifth to tie the score 5-5 and lined a shot off Boston relief ace Bill Campbell, 12-9, into the Red Sox' bullpen in the ninth.

Rice hit his 31st homer into the center field bleachers as the leadoff batter in the second inning. He lined another solo shot in the third and had a single in the fourth before he socked his third homer of the game after Carl Yastrzemski singled with one out in the sixth to give the Red Sox a 7-6 lead.

Oakland reliever Doug Bair, 3-2, struck out Rice in the eighth and picked up the victory.

It was a costly defeat for the Red Sox, their ninth in the last 12 games, and dropped them three games behind the firstplace New York Yankees in the American League East.

Five amateur slots open

ALAMO — An amateur qualifying round for the Sarah Coventry Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament will be played at Round Hill Country Club, RHCC general manager Jay Bedsworth announced yesterday.

"We wanted this 'thrill of a lifetime' opportunity to be open to all qualified amateurs," Bedsworth said in inviting all women with handicaps of 10 or less to enter the September 12 qualifying, to begin at 9 a.m.

Entry fee for the amatuer's is $30 and will benefit the Children's Home Society and the Cousteau Society. All entries must be received by Round Hill by September 7. The mailing address is Round Hill Country Club, 3169 Round Hill Road, Alamo, 94507.

The LPGA tourney, with Judy Rankin, Jo-Anne Carner and Kathy Whitworth all scheduled to compete along with five amateur qualifiers, will be worth $15,000 to the low pro and could go a long way in deciding the top money-winner on this year's LPGA tour.

Raiders' offense

Go portside, young man

SANTA ROSA — The Oakland Raiders had a left-handed offense well before Ken Stabler took over at quarterback.

"It has nothing to do with the fact that Kenny is left-handed," Coach John Madden said at the Super Bowl champions' training camp here.

"It began soon after Art Shell became the starting left tackle, after they found out what kind of a job he could do," said left guard Gene Upshaw.

The 525 pounds of Shell and Upshaw form perhaps the most devastating blocking wall in the National Football League. If it seems that about two-thirds of the team's running plays go to the left, it's because they do.

"A lot of teams stack up on us, especially in short yardage situations. Joe Greene of Pittsburgh says that in those situations, they figure we're going to run to the left nine times out of 10," said Shell.

"As Hank Stram says, you could put the whole Russian Army over there on defense and we're still going to run left," noted Upshaw. "Art and I are proud of that."

The two big linemen with small-college backgrounds — Shell from Maryland-Eastern Shore, Upshaw from Texas A & I — have been starting side by side since 1970 and have played in the Pro Bowl together several times. They're also close off-field friends.

"I know we run more plays to the left than to the right. Gene and Art are great, All-Pros in my mind. But I think of the line as a whole unit, not in parts. If the blocking on the right broke down, a play to the left wouldn't work anyway, and I think Gene and Art would be the first to tell you that. So it's a team thing," says Stabler.

Shell says, "Our other linemen are as good as any in the league. If teams stack too much on us, they're in trouble. We've gotten some awfully easy touchdowns going right."

Yet Madden says of the Raiders' offensive philosophy, "We've never gone for that we'll-take-what-you-give-us thinking."

Stabler pays more attention to Upshaw and Shell than to the defensive allignments of opponents.

"We ask Kenny for quite a few plays," says Shell. "If he says, 'Okay, let's try it,' we know we darn well better make it work.'"

The plays that have worked include the Clarence Davis' offtackle dash to midfield in the Raiders' 32-14 Super Bowl victory over Minnesota last January.

"We were down near our goal line and just trying for a first down," said Upshaw, recalling the play. "When the play popped, we all popped with it. I think it broke the game open. We just kept rolling after that."

Racing round-up

New faces at Bay Meadows

A new track announcer and paymistress of purses will be among the major personnel changes when the Tanforan Racing Association opens the fall thoroughbred season Labor Day at Bay Meadows.

William O. Reed, Jr. of Albany has been named to succeed Tod Creed as race caller during Tanforan's 20-day portion of the autumn season. Creed has resigned the post, which he has held since succeeding the late Joe Hernandez in 1969. Reed has served as backup announcer for the Tanforan and Pacific racing associations in recent years.

Creed, who has worked in various positions since 1947 at Golden Gate Fields and Bay Meadows, will continue as the track announcer at Bay Meadows and on the summer fair circuit.

Dorothy Labbok, assistant controller for the Pacific and Tanforan racing associations, will take over as paymistress of purses from Bonnie Allen, who resigned.

Cliff Goodrich, general manager of Tanforan, alos announced that Pete Pdersen, Charles E. Dougherty and Thomas Ward will represent the California Horse Racing Board as stewards at Bay Meadows this fall.

Gregory Brent will serve as a placing judge along with Charles Palmer and Anne Datary, California's first woman racing official. Palmer doubles as Paddock judge. Former jockeys Pepper Porter and Gordon Lanoway are the patrol judges.

In other Bay Meadows news, multiple stakes winners Eagletar and Grey Moon Runner are among the 14 thoroughbreds nominated to the $25,000-added Bay District Stakes, to be the feature of the Labor Day opener.

Nominations for the event were received from Del Mar, Longacres, and the summer fair circit in Northern California.

Local sophomore champion Grey Moon Runner will face his most severe test. He comes off two consecutive stakes victories on the fair circuit.

Mother Lode nominees

Thirteen distaff runners, including three-time stakes winner Pacara, have been nominated for the $12,000-added Mother Lode Handicap at the California State Fair next Tuesday.

The Argentine Mare was made eligible along with three other stakes winners — Gallant Outlook, Look Quick, and Summer Evening — for the mile and one-sixteenth event.

Pacara, a five-year-old, won the $15,000 Luther Burbank Stakes and previously captured the $15,000 fillies and mares handicap at Pleasanton. Her other stakes achievement is in the Golden Poppy Handicap at Golden Gate Fields.

Gallant Outlook won the Camellia Stakes over the State Fair oval last week, while Look Quick aquired stakes credentials in the Pleasanton Stakes. Summer Evening accounted for the Sacramento Handicap at Albany.

Meanwhile, a bumper crop of 28 juveniles were nominated for the $12,000 State Fair Championship, slated for renewal on closing day. Natural Joe, winner of three stakes in seven life-time outings, heads the list for the one-mile race.

The $10,000-added Sacramento Derby, the next feature attraction, drew a list of 11 possible starters, including Call Martini, a wire-to-wire winner in the Pleasanton Stakes.

Pitt QB recalls flood

PITTSBURGH — Tom Yewcic, a scrub who found a college football dream, also saw a flood nightmare turn real for Johnstown, Pa.

Yewcic's the quarterback who helped the University of Pittsburgh to the 1976 national title after starting out as a 14th-string freshman with no scholarship.

Last July 19, he and a coworker were painting from a scaffold on a dam near Johnstown. It was the Laurel Run Dam and it would unleash disaster.

"The water company had us up there painting for a couple of weeks," said Yewcic. "We were over the water and once in a while we'd fall in and swim."

Yewcic was in no mood for swimming that day.

"The sky got real black," he said. "There were low-hanging clouds that stayed in one place, and I didn't want to be on that dam if it started raining."

The rain came that night as Yewcic was driving home to Conemaugh.

"It was raining so hard I couldn't see," he said. "When the water got about thigh-high, it flooded the engine. I started running, then the water came over the car."

Yewcic made it to his home, located on high ground. The next day he began learning of flooding that killed at least 74 people and caused over $200 million damage.

The Laurel Run Dam, one of several that failed, let loose a wave that killed 33 people in Tanneryville.

"It was unbelievable. It still is," Yewcic said. "A lot of people thought the world was coming to an end."

Pitt was to hold training camp at it's Johnstown campus, but flood refugees were housed there. So the team shifted to a site in West Virginia, where Yewcic's beginning his fifth Pitt season.

"There were 14 quarterbacks when I started. I was listed No. 14," he said.

Some were moved to defense, so Yewcic got promoted. "To ninth-team," he said.

As a junior, Pitt gave him a uniform for junior varsity games. At the start of last season, he was an obscure backup with his name in the press guide but no picture.

When starter Robert Haygood injured his knee, Yewcic was among several players given cram courses for the backup job behind Matt Cavanaugh.

When Cavanaugh went down with a hairline leg fracture, Coach Johnny Majors turned to Yewcic. He started three ensuing games in which Pitt beat Miami, Navy and Syracuse, while Cavanaugh healed.

With Tony Dorsett, Yewcic didn't have to be spectacular. He wasn't, but he avoided big mistakes and hit 14 of 34 passes for two touchdowns.

Thomas holds edge

Troy Thomas early standard was never beaten as the Pleasanton Junior Football League's punt, pass, kick and run contest came to a close recently.

Thomas, competing in the "open" classification, scored 214 points to breeze to the win by more than 30 points. Other classification winners were Robert Wilbur, John Serrao, Chris Elbert, Todd Young, Mike Viglione, Steve Ferolito, Marty McGarry and Steve Plaw.

One hundred and seven participants entered the contest and 160 boys were ready to beging practice for the league's ninth season last night.

The PJFL, a low-key league with room for both experienced and new players, still has open roster spots. Interested players must sign up immediately to be eligible for the league opener on Sept. 17.

Those interested in signing up — age limit is 10-15 — may call Jack Ellis at 846-9494 while general information on the league is available from Irv Lindemuth at 443-2032.

Tracy to host wrist wrestling

Some of Northern California's top competitors are expected for Tracy's first annual wrist-wrestling championships, scheduled for Sunday, September 8 at the city's AmeJicpn Legion Hall.

The Tracy event is expected to serve as a tune-up for the Petaluma World Championships, set for October 8.

The competition, sponsored by Altamont Chevron, begins at 1:00 p.m., with participants weighing in from 8:00 to 11:00 a.m. The American Legion Hall is located at 1960 Tracy Blvd., using the Tracy Blvd. exit south off Interstate 205.

Already entered is Modesto's Denris Constable, the 1977 Central California Heavyweight champion. The 25-year-old Constable, a 6-4, 290-pound giant, is rated a strong threat to win both the Tracy title and the Petaluma World Championship.

Tracy's championships are patterned after Gustine's Central California Championships and include four weight divisions for men and one "open" classification for women. Proceeds for the event are going to the Tracy Babe Ruth Baseball League.

DFG will halt salmon

SACRAMENTO — King salmon will be barred from migrating up the Sacramento River at Red Bluff early next month to protect them from heat and metal poisoning, state officials said Monday.

The Fish and Game Department said the two problems, both related to the drought, endanger the upstream river fishery.

The department said the run of fall king salmon, which numbered about 80,000 last year, will be held up at Red Bluff Diversion Dam.

Millions of salmon eggs in the 60-mile stretch between Redding and Red Bluff almost certainly will be destroyed this fall because of water temperatures above the 57-degree maximum for incubation, officials said.

The reason is that the river is getting upper layers of warm water from Shasta and Clair Engle lakes because both lakes have little water, the department says.

An even greater threat comes from copper and zinc that will be washed down from old mines on nearby mountain slopeslby the first autumn rains, officials say. Usually the metals are diluted by flows from Lake Shasta, but those flows are being reduced sharply because of the drought.

A state water quality board last week told one mining company that by Nov. 15 it would have to sharply reduce the amount of minerals it releases in a tributary to the Sacramento River.

The department says 4,500 adult salmon will be transferred to the Feather River Hatchery in Oroville when its waters are cool enough, and others will be taken to Battle Creek, the Tehama-Colusa Canal, and the Coleman National Fish Hatchery.

Less-mature and smaller salmon will be released to move upriver for sport fishing.

The department said one of its goals is to get more salmon to spawn in gravel riffles downstream from the Red Bluff dam.

CITY OF PLEASANTON
COUNTY OF ALAMEDA
STATE OF CALIFORNIA
RESOLUTION NO. 1536

A RESOLUTION OF THE PLANNING COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON RECOMMENDING TO THE CITY COUNCIL THE ADOPTION OF PUD-77-5.

WHEREAS, J. Jack Bras, on behalf of Savco Construction Company, has filed for a rezoning request for an approximately 0.91 acre site composed of four separate lots located on the west side of Sonoma Drive between Junipero Street and developed multiple lots to the north of Junipero Street from the RM-2500 (Multiple Residential) District to the PUD (Planned Unit Development High Density Residential) District and for approval of a development plan for eight "garden court" homes on the site; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission held a public hearing on this application on July 13, 1977, at which time pertinent maps, drawings, documents, reports and testimony were reviewed; and

WHEREAS, in conjunction with their review, the Planning Commission considered the factors listed in Section 2-8.35(b) of Article 14, Chapter 2, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE PLANNING COMMISSION RESOLVES:

Section 1. The Planning Commission recommends to the City Council the adoption of Application PUD-77-5, as proposed subject to the following conditions:

1. That the development be substantially as shown on the development plan, Exhibit A, on file with the Planning Department.
2. That the rear yard requirement for the units facing on Sonoma Drive be 12 ft.
3. That the developer's contractor obtain an encroachment permit from the City prior to the beginning of construction.
4. That the site be kept free of fire hazards from the start of construction to final inspection and that the Fire Division emergency number be provided adjacent to all telephones on the site.
5. That all residences be constructed to meet the P.G.&E. energy conservation home standards promulgated by P.G.&E. in 1976.
6. That the following water conserving plumbing fixtures be installed in all units: (a) low-flush water closets; (b) shower flow control heads; (c) aerators in interior faucets; (d) insulation of hot water lines.
7. That the developer process a tentative subdivision map or a tentative parcel map for the development; the type of map to be determined by the City at a later date.
8. That the developer process a final subdivision or a final parcel map for the resubdivision of lots 32 through 35 of Tract 2517; the type of map to be determined by the City at a later date.
9. That the developer process a set of improvement plans to provide for the installation of an individual water service and a sewer lateral to each dwelling unit and for the reconstruction of the curb, gutter and sidewalk to provide for the additional driveways required.
10. That the developer make arrangements with the City to slurry seal Sonoma Drive and Junipero Streets in front of the subject property subsequent to installation of utilities.
11. That approval of this development does not guarantee that the developer will receive sewage connections, if ever. This development is in the Sunol Sewer Service Area and is subject to the allocation formula established by Resolution No. 76-83. Until sewer connections have been obtained, no building permits may be issued for the development or any or all of the project. No estimate can be made as to when this development may obtain sewer permits. A septic tank or holding tank application cannot be submitted since the City Council has established by Resolution No. 73-139 and 73-140 that subdivisions cannot be served by such private disposal systems.
12. That the developer install one street tree per interior lot and three street trees on the corner lot. These trees to be Robina Idahoensis (pink locust) and that they shall conform to standard City specifications.
13. That the developer landscape the planter strips on Junipero Street in front of the subject property.
14. That any damage to street improvements now existing or done during construction on the subject properties be repaired at full expense to the developer.
15. That all utilities required to serve the development be installed underground.
16. That the street numbers be posted on each individual unit in such a manner as to be easily read from the street at all times, day and night.
17. That all trees used in landscaping be a minimum of 15 gallons in size and all shrubs a minimum of 5 gallons.
18. That the developer submit a site development plan in accordance with the survey ordinance (Article 3, Chapter 3, Title II) and that these plans be approved by the Director of Engineering Services prior to the issuance of a building permit.
19. That the site development plan include all required information to design and construct site grading, paving and drainage.
20. That the paving sections for the parking and drive areas be designed on the basis of an R-Value Test and a Traffic Index to carry the anticipated traffic loads. This design shall be subject to the approval of the Director of Engineering Services. The minimum paving section shall be 2" A.C. on 5" A.B. The minimum A.C. pavement slope shall be 1%.
21. That the developer pay any and all fees that the property may be subject to, including in-lieu park dedication fees.

Section 2. This resolution shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption.

Gardens grow in the Bronx rubble

NEW YORK (AP) — Like all good farmers, they rise at the crack of dawn, but not to the sound of roosters nor to a glorious sun coming over the hills. Neither does a private, narrow, winding path lead them to the land they have lovingly tilled. But like all farmers, they take pride in the harvest they reap.

Urban farmers, or gardeners as they prefer to call themselves, are a different breed, but their love for the land is not casual.

Carl and Mary get up early every morning. While most of the Bronx slumbers, Mary prepares a box with old shoes, garden tools and gloves, maybe a light lunch.

Carl, 71, and Mary, 68, who asked that their last name not be used, leave their flat and drive about a mile down Westchester Avenue to Pelham Bay Park. At the park they stop in front of a big mound — a city landfill.

Nestled against the garbage heap are 25 tidy vegetable garden plots. Opposite, a mile away, soaring Co-Op City hovers over the 70-by 70-foot farm.

They go to their garden marked with a sign, "Carl and Mary, Gardeners," and tenderly pick their ripened eggplants, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, string beans, squash, basil ...

It's odd that against this backdrop of rubble over which heavy garbage trucks plow, the produce grows healthy and green. But the gardens are on the decomposed and oldest part of the landfill, and the city's Sanitation Department turned over the soil for the farm, adding leaf mulch, garden lime, peat moss and cow manure.

The Bronx project, and a second one on a landfill in Brooklyn, are sponsored by local Senior Citizens Centers and the Land Resources Task Force, which is run by both the Sanitation Department and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Citibank donated $1,000 toward the project in 1976 and the same amount this year. The money pays for seeds, carfare and lunch money for the city gardeners.

Petite, gray-haired Ethel Simon, 70, one of the 30 Bronx senior citizen gardeners, who says she writes poetry, does mosaics and wood carvings, says she's been gardening since the age of 14.

"I live in a private house here in the Bronx and I have a garden there; it's a fruit garden — I grow pear trees, raspberries and currants. But there's not enough sun there, so I grow the vegeables here."

Carl was a graphics artist and the wooden plaques that identify each garden's owner are his work.

The signs tell something about each gardener: Raffale, the Farmer; Sal, the Tomato Man; Ethel, the Gardner; Nick, the Bricklayer.
